Allegacy Federal Credit Union Employees
Cook To Raise Money For Local Non Profit

In addition to Allegacy’s corporate sponsorship of the event, Phillips and Pichardo raised nearly $4,000 of online tips and tips at the event. Men Who Cook featured 24 local male celebrity chef teams that highlighted their amateur cooking skills for almost 400 party goers. The Allegacy team served up Phillips’ father’s renowned spaghetti dish, naming it Spaghetti a la Allegacy.

Nearly $140,000 was raised for The Family House, which is an alternative to a hospital waiting room or an expensive hotel for people facing the challenge of out-of-town medical care. The House provides affordable accommodations for adult patients and caregivers who have been referred by one of three local organizations – Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center, Novant Health Forsyth Medical Center and Hospice and Palliative CareCenter.

“Allegacy is thrilled to support an organization that helps folks be their best during what is likely one of the most difficult times in their lives,” said Tracy Myers, VP, Business and Community Development, Allegacy. “Paul and Kevin did an amazing job with their spaghetti dish and with generating thousands of dollars in tips. Donations go to such a worthy cause – the Family House – and we are honored to participate.”

About Allegacy

For 51 years, Allegacy has helped its members, employees and the communities it serves be their best by helping people make smart financial choices. By doing right, Allegacy has become one of the largest credit unions in North Carolina serving more than 140,000 members worldwide with over $1.3 billion in assets and an additional billion dollars in assets under management in its financial planning group. With roots in Winston Salem, Allegacy has 15 locations and eight high school student-run credit unions. Allegacy offers personal and business financial services to help a broad membership base including the employees, retirees and families of over 700 companies throughout the country be their best. To learn more, visit Allegacy.org.